Result of examination:

Q1 through Q4 were not identified in the Anonymous Letter File. Representative copies of these specimens have been added to this file for future reference.

No indented writing of value was found on Q1 through Q4 and no watermarks were found on Q1 through Q4.

The typewriting on Q1 through Q3 resembles a Smith-Corona style of pica type; however, this typewriting could not be definitely classified because it consists of all upper-case letters.

The disposition of the submitted evidence will be furnished with the fingerprint report. Representative photographs are retained.

Date of transcription 4/18/89

On April 13, 1989, [redacted] was interviewed at her residence, [redacted] Apartment number [redacted] San Diego, California, telephone number [redacted]. After being advised of the identity of Special Agents (SAs) [redacted] and [redacted], [redacted] provided the following information:

When advised that the nature of the inquiry related to a letter written to the Surgeon General of the United States, [redacted] stated that she writes letters to everybody. Additionally, she had no intentions of physically harming the U.S. Surgeon General, but that she spiritually reverses all destructive forces.

[redacted], of apparent diminished mental capacity, spoke in a rambling manner, and claimed to be a Martian princess. She refused to consent to a formal interview, and claimed she would only talk to WILLIAM SESSIONS.

[redacted] refused to provide biographical information, and stated that her middle name was "TROUBLE." She denied knowing who the "Wickerwoman" was.

On March 28, 1989, [redacted] Psychiatrist, telephonically contacted Special Agent [redacted] in response to a message left for him at his office. After being advised of the identity of Special Agent [redacted] provided the following information:

When informed that the nature of the interview would be to determine who the anonymous writer of a threatening letter to the Surgeon General of the United States was, [redacted] stated that he believed he knew the writer to be one [redacted] (phonetic).

[redacted] is [redacted] of a former [redacted] patient of [redacted] [redacted] formerly treated the [redacted] after which [redacted] expressed her dissatisfaction with his services.

Approximately three or four weeks ago, [redacted] received an unstamped letter, placed into his business mailbox, believed to be written by [redacted]. The letter described vague threats against him, and was similar in nature to prior verbal dissatisfaction that [redacted] expressed to [redacted]. On one occasion, date unknown, [redacted] entered [redacted] office and verbally abused him in front of staff and patients.

[redacted] described [redacted] as "crazy but harmless, a nuisance."

[redacted] allegedly also made threats against [redacted] [redacted], a psychiatrist who practices in Escondido, California, and is [redacted] the local Psychiatric Ethics Committee, and [redacted] the San Diego Society of Psychiatric Physicians.

[redacted] occasionally uses an alias which [redacted] could not recall. He suggested that [redacted], a social worker at the [redacted] San Diego, a residential treatment center in San Diego, California, might know the alias name used by [redacted]

[redacted] is further described as follows:

Name: [redacted]

Race: [redacted]

White

On March 31, 1989, [] was advised of the identity of Special Agent []. After being so advised, [] provided the following information:

[] is a psychiatric physician, practicing at the [] of San Diego, [] San Diego, California, telephone number [].

Approximately two years ago [] was [] the Peer Review Committee of the San Diego Society of Psychiatric Physicians, a part of the American Psychiatric Association, and investigated a complaint filed by one [] (phonetic), not believed to be a true name. [] complaint related to the treatment afforded [] who was hospitalized in a mental health facility, by [] of El Cajon, California. At that time, [] recommended that [] not be returned to [] upon his release from the mental health facility.

The written complaint filed by [] consisted of a rambling, incoherent written letter addressed to []. His investigation was conducted with a finding of no inappropriate treatment having been afforded by [].

Within the past two months, [] received a packet of copies of rambling letters, from an unknown female whom he believed to be []. The copies were of letters apparently mailed to other persons in the psychiatric community. [] turned the letters over to a police officer whose name he does not recall, and at that time, learned that the police suspected the letter writer as one who identified herself as "WICKERWOMAN."

[] has had no other contact with the "WICKERWOMAN" or []. He has never met [].
